PRIDE!

The achievement of doing one's best.

Each year we plate thousands of musical instruments both old and new. Probably nothing is looked at as critically as the finish on your brass instrument. We take pride in every plating, dent repair and piston re-fit job. That's why we take the time to do it right—and why you'll be proud to show the work we take pride in.
